

Elspeth Hathaway, industriAll

Elspeth Hathaway is the policy advisor responsible for steel and basic metals at industriAll European Trade Union. IndustriAll Europe represents industrial and manufacturing workers across Europe and coordinates various European Social Dialogue Committees, including for Steel with their social partners EUROFER.

Elspeth studied Psychology at the University of Glasgow before undertaking various training, co-ordination and management roles in both public health and education.

She has worked as a policy advisor, and a communications officer, for a British politician in the UK and was Head of Office for the leader of the UK Labour Party in the European Parliament covering the Employment and Social Affairs Committee and Trade Union liaison.