

Clara Behrend, TU Dortmund University

Clara Behrend has been working as a research assistant for the Social Research Centre at TU Dortmund University since June 2019 as researcher in the ESSA, SPIRE-SAIS and Beyond 4.0 projects. Her research focuses on the digitalisation of work in the European labour market, changes in skill demand and Vocational Education and Training in the context of European policy, the sociology of work and industry and lifelong learning. She studied social sciences in Düsseldorf, Nottingham and Berlin and holds a masters degree. She has worked with the MIT Institute Bonn, working on the social dialogue concerning the effects of digitalisation. Previously, she also worked at the Social Science Research Center Berlin and at Cornell University Ithaca, New York.